TWENTY-EIGHTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Workers in some industries these days are monitored by the minute. Their time is measured relentlessly for its economic value. The pressure to be constantly productive can be immense. It can take a huge toll on employees' health and well-being. No wonder we relish other spheres of life where time isn't evaluated in monetary terms. In the light of this it may seem unfair to raise a question about how we spend our "free" time. Yet there's every chance we'd learn a lot from an honest audit of the time and effort we choose to invest in things. It could bring to light what we actually value rather than what we think or say we value. Further steps could lead us to reflect on what the exercise has revealed and to reassess our priorities. A final step, if we had the courage which the rich man of the gospel did not, would be to let go of what possess us and make room for the reign of God in our lives. Even if we only get to first base, we can be sure that Jesus will look steadily at us and love us.

A READING FROM THE HOLY GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MARK

Jesus was setting out on a journey when a man ran up, knelt before him and put this question to him, 'Good master, what must I do to inherit eternal life?' Jesus said to him, 'Why do you call me good? No one is good but God alone. You know the commandments: You must not kill; You must not commit adultery; You must not steal; You must not bring false witness; You must not defraud; Honour your father and mother.' And he said to him, 'Master, I have kept all these from my earliest days.' Jesus looked steadily at him and loved him, and he said, 'There is one thing you lack. Go and sell everything you own and give the money to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; then come, follow me.' But his face fell at these words and he went away sad, for he was a man of great wealth.

Jesus look round and said to his disciples, 'How hard it is for those who have riches to enter the kingdom of God!' The disciples were astounded by these words but Jesus insisted, 'My children,' he said to them, 'how hard it is to enter the kingdom of God! It is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God.' They were more astonished than ever. 'In that case' they said to one another, 'who can be saved?' Jesus gazed at them, 'For men' he said, 'it is impossible, but not for God: because everything is possible for God.'

COMMENTARY ON THE GOSPEL

The commandments that Jesus cites are all related to right dealing with other human beings; those dealing with our relationship with God are passed over. This social focus is paralleled by Jesus' command that the man should give his wealth away to the poor. The directive that Jesus gives seems to identify the action that the man must take "to inherit eternal life". But the story suggests that this would be not so much an award-winning initiative on the man's part as a letting go of what stands in the way of his personal relationship with Jesus. Mark states that "Jesus looked steadily at him and loved him"; the gift that is on offer is fellowship with Jesus.

Jesus' private instruction of his disciples reinforces the point that it is not human endeavour that matters but the power of God, "because everything is possible for God".

"Thank You"

Caritas Australia would like to thank you all for your generous support of Project Compassion 2018 - For a Just Future. The total donation by the parish was $5,100.05. Your generosity has made it possible for Caritas Australia to empower individuals and communities through education and transform their future and create lasting change.

"And you, who do you say I am?" (Mark 8:29)

This question Jesus put to his disciples two thousand years ago he now puts to you and me: Who is Jesus for me at this time and place in my life? To find an answer, let us explore together what the Gospels tell us about Jesus of Nazareth. "Go back and tell John what you have seen and heard; the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead raised and the Good News is preached to the poor." (Luke 7:22) Check out the website www.cfe.org.au for information about this course and other term 4 classes.

CROSS DESTINED FOR GARDEN

The construction of a huge cross to form a centrepiece in the new Rosary Community Garden is well advanced. Carpenter Nick Del Riccio (pictured right) showed parish priest Fr Peter Hoang and pastoral council co-chair Kevin Susai progress on the structure during a recent visit to his Bayswater workshop.

Built from Oregon, the cross will stand 3.6 metres high and weigh about 150 kgs. No nails have been used in its manufacture.

Planning is now under way for its installation at the western end of the garden at the head of the main access pathway.

Meanwhile repairs to the original statue of Our Lady, which occupied a bushland grotto in the church grounds for many years, are almost complete. The statue will be relocated to the embankment on the north side of the new garden.

There are a few copies of the current Record on the tables at the back of the church, or you can check out the current news, movie reviews, obituaries and other information on-line — go to www.therecord.com.au
