“THERE IS NO COMMANDMENT GREATER THAN THESE.”

So Jesus declares to the sincere scribe who approaches him. Jesus does not invent the pithy sayings he quotes. They were already embedded in his own Jewish tradition as well as in others. The originality of Jesus lies in two things: the personal testimony of his own unconditional love of God and neighbour, and the revelation that in him the infinite love of God has taken flesh and dwelt among us. With good reason we could say that this twofold command — to love God with all our might and to love our neighbour as ourselves — is Jesus’ last will and testament, soon to be embodied in bread and wine. Like Matthew, but unlike Luke and Paul, Mark does not record Jesus’ own command at the Last Supper to “do this in memory of me”. In his gospel it remains unspoken. Not so in the liturgy. Every time we celebrate eucharist we repeat these words loud and clear.

But we should never imagine that when Jesus tells us to “do this in memory of me” he is just giving an instruction about what to do with bread and wine. To “do this” as he commands is to commit ourselves to love as he loved, to love God and neighbour with all our heart and mind and soul and strength.

PROPAGATION OF THE FAITH/ MISSION APPEAL

“...To love God with all your heart, with all your understanding and strength, and to love your neighbour as yourself...”
Your generous donation to the Propagation of the Faith/Mission Appeal this weekend sustains and strengthens the work of our missionaries in being of service to the poor. As Pope Francis teaches “Before all else, the Gospel invites us to respond to the God of love who saves us, to see God in others and to go forth from ourselves to seek the good of others.” (Evangelii Gaudium 39).

Envelopes for donations to the Mission Appeal are on the table at the back of the church.

A READING FROM THE HOLY GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MARK

One of the scribes came up to Jesus and put a question to him, 'Which is the first of all the commandments?' Jesus replied, 'This is the first: Listen Israel, the Lord our God is the one Lord, and you must love the Lord your God with all your heart, with all your soul, with all your mind and with all your strength. The second is this: You must love your neighbour as yourself. There is no commandment greater than these.' The scribe said to him, 'Well spoken, Master; what you have said is true: that He is one and there is no other. To love with all your heart, with all your understanding and strength and to love your neighbour as yourself, this is far more important than any holocaust or sacrifice.' Jesus, seeing how wisely he had spoken said, 'You are not far from the kingdom of God.' And after that no one dared to question him any more.

COMMENTARY ON THE GOSPEL

The gospel for today is so familiar that many could recite it off by heart. It's Jesus' answer to the often-asked question of his day: "Which is the first of all the commandments?" It is noteworthy that the scribe who puts the question to Jesus is depicted positively. He is making a genuine enquiry, not trying to trap Jesus.

Jesus' reply links the overriding command to love God (as prescribed in the first reading) with the command to love your neighbour as spelt out in Leviticus 19:18. He is therefore not inventing a new command as such. Nor may he have been the first to forge such a link But he articulates it clearly and lives it unconditionally. The scribe's response echoes the preaching of the prophets and earns him Jesus' commendation.

SPECIAL FEAST DAYS

November 9: THE DEDICATION OF THE LATERAN BASILICA

Today the Church celebrates the feast of the Dedication of the Lateran Basilica in Rome, the oldest and highest ranking of the four major basilicas in Rome. The Basilica of St. John Lateran is the cathedral of the diocese of Rome, the official ecclesiastical seat of the Holy Father, the Bishop of Rome, not St. Peter's Basilica as so many mistakenly believe. The Basilica is also called the Church of Holy Saviour or the Church of St. John Baptist. In ancient Rome this was the church where everyone was baptised. It is the oldest church in the West, built in the time of Constantine and was consecrated by Pope Sylvester in 324.

November 10: SAINT LEO THE GREAT

Leo was elected pope in 440. He tried to protect the city from the devastation of barbarian invasion. His surviving letters illustrate the leadership and guidance he exercised as bishop of Rome toward other Churches in the West. He is remembered for the clarity of his thought, his eloquent sermons, and for the prayers he composed for the Roman liturgy. He died in Rome on this day in 461.

Rosary Community Centre presents
